Tourism in Mexico

Mexico is the number one destination for foreign tourists within the Latin America region, ranking worldwide in tenth place for international tourist arrivals. Visitors will find a wide variety of history-rich locations such as the state of Yucatan, home to the ancient Mayan civilization, where archeological remains of the pyramids and other structures built by Mayan people have stood for over 3000 years. Mexico is also famous for its array of beautiful beaches - from the ultra-popular beaches of Cancun and Acapulco, to the more secluded and un-populated treasures like Playa Azul and Mazatlán. Mexico City is the capitol of Mexico and is popular with tourists as an ancient Meso-American city and the site of many popular attractions such as the Pyramid of the Sun and the Pyramid of the Moon. Other human made tourist zones, such as La Zona Rosa or Shopping District, El Palenque, and El Zocalo (one of the largest public plazas in the world) are here. The city is also home to the Plaza de Toros Mexico - the world's largest bullring - and to the Mexican National Palace, built on the site of Montezuma's Palace, and the huge Metropolitan Cathedral, the largest in the western hemisphere. Mexico City also features one of the finest museums in the world: The National Museum of Anthropology and History. Rich with culture and a captivating ancient history, Mexico is always well worth the visit.
